Effective working with OCD

OCD is a tricky condition...literally. This talk will explore the clinical mechanics of OCD and explain how to provide effective clinical assistance to your clients. Alongside the clinical model, John will be discussing OCD as a "human" condition and looking at how we can give a little bit more than just a CBT style intervention.

Working with Alzheimers Disease

The largest, most costly and debilitating disease ever diagnosed around the world is about to become a reality. Though not contagious, this disease is predicted to kill up to one-third of the population. There is no cure. The key to survival is presently found only in prevention and early detection. Now is the time to protect yourself as you build your practice with this cutting-edge information.

Hypnosis in Pain Management and Disability Settings

Hypnotic Pain Relief is an ideal addition for medical, dental and pain management practices. This presentation will cover the basics of marketing your hypnotic pain relief services to the public and the licensed medical, dental and pain management professionals who care for them. This presentation is based on my direct experience in working with dozens of licensed and alternative health care providers and my experience educating 1000 of licensed Pain Clinicians on the benefits of recommending our hypnotic services for helping their pain patients.

How To Expand Your Hypnotherapy Practice World-Wide

Today's technology means anyone, anywhere, with access to a telephone or to the Internet through a webcam and Skype (free 'phone' calls) can benefit from professional counseling, psychotherapy, hypnotherapy and hypno-psychotherapy. This is the modern way to bring therapy to people anywhere on Earth. Mr Knight will show you how to develop your online practice. He will also discuss the ethics and viability of online therapy.
